В пособии рассматриваются все типы вопросов: общий, специальный, альтернативный, разделительный, косвенный. Особо выделен вопрос к подлежащему, хотя он относится к специальным вопросам. Подробно описано употребление вопросительных слов, уделено внимание устойчивым выражениям с такими вопросительными словами, как what, why, how. Разбираются тонкости образования разделительных вопросов.

Большое количество упражнений, основанных на современной британской и американской литературе, помогает отшлифовать умение задавать вопросы и доводит его до автоматизма.

Пособие предназначено для всех изучающих английский язык.

Типы вопросов

Questions

Вопросы задают для получения информации или разрешения. Также вопросы используют, чтобы выразить предложение, просьбу или требование, приглашение. В зависимости от формы вопроса и его содержания вопросы делятся на типы.

- Для образования вопроса вспомогательный или модальный глагол ставится перед подлежащим.
- В специальных вопросах на первом месте стоит вопросительное слово, затем вспомогательный или модальный глагол, затем подлежащее.
- Если в качестве сказуемого выступает глагол, употребляющийся с предлогом, предлог сохраняется и ставится в конце вопроса.

Общий вопрос

Общий вопрос требует ответа «да» или «нет». Вопрос задаётся ко всему предложению.

Are you ready? — Yes. Ты готов? — Да.

Have you read this magazine? — No. Ты прочитал журнал? — Нет.

- Для образования вопроса вспомогательный или модальный глагол ставится перед подлежащим.

Did he go to London last week? — Он ездил в Лондон на прошлой неделе?

May I begin? — Можно мне начать?

- Если вспомогательных глаголов несколько, перед подлежащим ставится первый, остальная часть сказуемого следует после подлежащего.

Will you have finished by lunchtime? — Вы закончите к ланчу?

Has he been working? — Он работал?

- Если вопрос задаётся в Present Simple или Past Simple, используется вспомогательный глагол to do в соответствующем времени.

Do the British take sport seriously? — Британцы серьёзно относятся к спорту?

Does Mark do this sort of thing often? — Марк часто делает такого рода вещи?

Did you meet Jason in France? — Ты встретил Джейсона во Франции?

- Если основной глагол — to be, то вспомогательного глагола не требуется, он сам переходит на первое место в предложении перед подлежащим.

Are you okay? — Ты в порядке?

Was it lonely without us? — Без нас было одиноко?

- Если основной глагол — to have got, вопрос строится без вспомогательного глагола, если to have — со вспомогательным глаголом to do. Сейчас британцы редко говорят “Have you...?”

Do you have a pen I could borrow? — У тебя есть запасная ручка, которую я мог бы взять?

Have you got a double room available? — У вас есть свободный двухместный номер?

Несмотря на то что общий вопрос образуется при помощи вспомогательного глагола и обратного порядка слов, можно задать вопрос с прямым порядком слов, используя лишь вопросительную интонацию, если говорящий выражает удивление или хочет убедиться, что то, что он услышал, так и есть. Такие вопросы часто можно встретить при устном общении и в диалогах персонажей художественных произведений.

You stressed it was highly confidential? —
Вы подчеркнули, что это строго конфиденциально?

And Haldane accepted? — И Халдейн принял?

Then you'll do it, Adrian? You'll take the job? —
Так ты сделаешь это, Адриан? Возьмёшь работу?

- Общий вопрос в отрицательной форме задаётся, когда ответ ожидается положительный.

Wasn't he French? — Yes. Разве он не француз? — Француз.

Didn't you say you'd done it? — Yes. Разве вы не сказали, что сделали это? — Сказал.

- Ответом на общий вопрос может быть просто yes или no или с добавлением подлежащего и вспомогательного глагола.

Did you enjoy the film? — Yes, I did. Тебе понравился фильм? — Да, понравился.

Разделительный вопрос

Разделительный вопрос выражает предположение «не так ли?», «не правда ли?».

Разделительный вопрос употребляется обычно в устной речи, когда хотят проверить справедливость своего мнения.

- Вопрос состоит из двух частей. Первая часть — это утвердительное или отрицательное повествовательное предложение, вторая — собственно вопрос, который строится с помощью соответствующего вспомогательного глагола и личного местоимения. Местоимение соотносится с подлежащим.
A tiger has got stripes, hasn't it? — У тигра есть полосы, не так ли?
- Если предложение стоит в простом времени и не содержит вспомогательных глаголов или глагола to be, то вопрос строится с помощью вспомогательного глагола to do и личного местоимения. В других временах правила те же, что и при построении общего вопроса.
He left the town quite young, did he not? — Он уехал из города довольно молодым, разве нет?
You'll follow me round everywhere, won't you? — Ты будешь ходить за мной всюду, разве нет?
- Если высказывание утвердительное, то вопрос, как правило, отрицательный.
She was at home, wasn't she? — Она ведь была дома, да?
He lives in a flat, doesn't he? — Он живёт в квартире, разве нет?
Your name is Shaw, isn't it? — Ваша фамилия Шоу, не так ли?
That's what Amy did, wasn't it? — Именно это сделала Эми, не так ли?
You know where it is, don't you? — Вы ведь знаете, где это, так?
Quite a new experience for you to be jilted, isn't it? — Быть обманутым — нечто новое для вас, не так ли?
- Если высказывание отрицательное, то вопрос, как правило, утвердительный.
She won't come to the party, will she? — Она ведь не придёт на вечеринку, да?
You haven't been here long, have you? — Вы были здесь не долго, так?
Amy Robsart didn't wear a bathing dress, did she? — На Эми Робсарт не было купального халата, так?
- Если высказывание содержит слово с отрицательным значением, например, never, hardly, seldom, rarely, то вопрос утвердительный.

He is never late, is he? — Он ведь никогда не опаздывает, правда?

- Если в основном высказывании подлежащим являются такие слова, как everyone, someone, anyone, no one, nobody, то в вопросе употребляется местоимение they.
Somebody should help her, shouldn't they? — Кому-нибудь следует ей помочь, разве нет?
Everyone feels like a failure at times, don't they? — Каждый временами чувствует себя неудачником, правда?

А вот некоторые тонкости, которые очень важно знать.

I am → aren't I?

I am strong, aren't I? — Я сильный, правда?

Повелительное наклонение → will / won't you?

Close the door, will / won't you? — Закрой дверь, хорошо?

Don't → will you?

Don't shout, will you? — Не кричи, хорошо?

Let's → shall we?

Let's go out, shall we? — Пойдём куда-нибудь, ладно?

Let me / him, etc. → will / won't you?

Let him buy it, will / won't you? — Пусть он купит это, ладно?

I have (got) → haven't I?

She has got a sister, hasn't she? — У неё есть сестра, не так ли?

I have → don't I?

You have a shower every day, don't you? — Ты принимаешь душ каждый день, разве нет?

There is / are → isn't / aren't there?

There is a man in the room, isn't there? — В комнате мужчина, так?

This / That is → isn't it?

That's Mary's coat, isn't it? — Это пальто Мэри, так ведь?

Однако утвердительный вопрос может следовать за утвердительным высказыванием, если говорящий хочет проверить, правильно ли он понял, или выражает интерес, удивление, гнев.

You've been to North America before, have you? — Вы в самом деле были в Северной Америке раньше?

Если кто-то говорит о себе и хочет узнать мнение собеседника, в вопросе он употребляет местоимение you.
